

WE'LL GET YOU HOME SAFELY

Medical Procedure Escorts provides active and retired EMS, firemen & law enforcement officers to escort clients to and from their Medical Procedure. Quite often when a person has a medical procedure scheduled by their doctor, the patient is mandated to have an adult present who can escort the patient home after the procedure. Most of us will contact a trusted family member or friend to assist us and escort us home safely. However, there are times when no family member or friend is available, but you still need to provide an escort or the doctor will not perform the surgical procedure. On such occasions, please contact MEDICAL PROCEDURE ESCORTS. Our trained and courteous (non medical) escorts will enter the doctor's office, sign in if requested, and wait until the procedure is completed, and when authorized by the doctor, escort the patient home, making sure the patient arrives home safely.

Our escorts will provide non-medical services only, and we do not train the escorts to provide medical services or to make any medical diagnosis. However, their professional background may give them an increased awareness if a patient is possibly ill. Our escorts are instructed to ask the client if they feel healthy enough to care for themselves before departing. They will also look for signs that a patient may be ill, such as watery eyes, flushed face, sweating in normal conditions, and or confusion in a patient. They will also study the patients coordination, judgment and memory (to the best of their ability) before and after the procedure, before departing for the day. If the escort notices any conditions they will advise the client (not mandate) to call 911 or a family member to look after them. No guarantees are made or implied

Why patients need an escort

Patients who are sedated for a procedure, need an escort after their procedure is completed. After surgery, a patients coordination, judgment and memory may be impaired for some time, due to the sedation, and it is important that you have someone available to ensure you get home safely. It is essential that patients have a responsible adult who can act as your escort. Abbreviated List of Medical procedures (sedation & non sedation procedures) that may require an escort home
